Dave,

Concorde Machine Tool has recently completed the installation of energy Savings Devices supplied By Dave Karavitz, we found Dave to be extremely professional during the course of the decision making process, he was more than willing to prove the equipment purchased by Concorde was going to perform beyond expectations. Before purchasing the said equipment we did extensive research with our own electricians and professionals provides by Dave, which included a 24 hour test on a large machine at Concorde, the results out performed expectations, which led to Concorde having the complete facility equipped with various Energy Savings Devices.

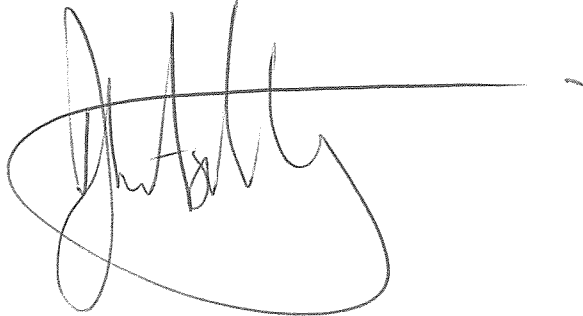

From The financial side the ROI will be 18-20 months if the devises perform at guaranteed levels, from the initial test results we are expecting to have that reduced by up to 2-4 months.

This also gave Concorde the opportunity to participate in some thing that is positive for the environment and good for the country we live in.

Concorde is being used as test case for our parent Company Reko International Group Inc. if the initiative taken performs as expected it will lead to the complete group, here in Canada and our American divisions implementing the same energy saving devises.
